The German Carnival Museum in Kitzingen

and the European Carnival Archives

historical and entertaining

The Foundation of the German Carnival Museum dates back to the year 1963. We could therefore celebrate the 50th anniversary of our institution in 2013 with a new exhibit design. After a thorough renovation and new conception, the Carnival Museum presents an entirely up to date exhibition. Today it is home to several thousand items

History

Take a journey through the centuries from the Middle Ages to the present. You will meet medieval jesters, early masked figures, runners in the „Schembartlauf“ of Nuremberg, characters from the Commedia dell'Arte, baroque fancy-dress ballgoers and participants in the civic carnivals of the 19th century. Our oldest artifact on display, a medieval jester's book, dates back to 1511!

We're fools whether we dance or not, so we might as well dance.

Basics

You'll not only learn about the centuries-old history of carnival festivities, but also about its origins and main elements – about the music, certain attributes as the fool's caps and the significance of the fool's number eleven. In another section we introduce you to the complex alliance of politics, church and carnival throughout the centuries.

Costumes

Our most extraordinary artifacts include masks and costumes from all over German-speaking countries and even some from overseas. In a virtual „jester's theatre“, a multimedia show, twelve figures from traditional carnivals in Germany and Austria compete with each other and tell their stories. Here you can have a realistic experience of traditional carnival parades – from the noise of innumerable bells to the colorful shimmer of countless costumes.

Fools are infinite.
